

NABFOUNDATION furthers its outreach among stakeholders

NABFOUNDATION made further inroads into the development sector in a series of meetings held in Delhi this week.

The MPMR project was launched in Mitraon village of Najafgarh, rural Delhi by the CEO, NABFOUNDATION along with Dr. Jha, a reputed gynaecologist who has been working with the rural poor women for a decade.

An MoU was signed with SBI in Delhi under which SBI has stepped forward to finance all the SHGs covered under "MY PAD MY RIGHT" project and having with SB accounts with SBI. As Bank of the Nation, SBI brings special value to this particular project and also opens up opportunities for the future projects of NABFOUNDATION (and NABARD).

Another project of NABFOUNDATION under which a portal is being developed to map the skill gaps and skill aspirations of youths in NER got a boost with the onboarding of DALMIA FOUNDATION. An MOU was signed with Dalmia under which CSR support will be provided for the project. NABFOUNDATION has already been committed support for this innovative and new generation project by both NABFINS and NABSAMRUDDHI.

Meeting was held with SICAS (Sulabh International Centre for Action Sociology) to understand the dynamics of handling pan India projects in the rural hygiene sector. Shri Rupak Roy Choudhary, National Coordinator showed the various projects of SICAS and how collaborations could be possible. The sprawling facility of SICAS is proof of the power of involving SHGs and rural schools in hygiene related projects.

Shri Sanjeev D Rohilla reviewed the progress under the ongoing project supported by NABCONS with Shri Naveen Dhingra, General Manager, NABCONS and Shri Himanshu, Company Secretary, NABCONS and also discussed the new projects which could take a shape with assistance from NABCONS. The CEO also got a chance to interact with Shri K V Rao, Managing Director, NABCONS and sought his advice about future collaborations.

A meeting was also held with Dr. Alok Mishra, CEO, Mfin to explore possibilities of collaboration. Shri Rohilla presented the Foundation brochure to Dr. Alok Mishra.
